

Elizabeth is a 2006 graduate of the Baylor College of Medicine's Physician Assistant Program in Houston, Texas. After graduation, she joined the Pediatric Critical Care team at Texas Children's Hospital and continues there today. She accepted a position with the faculty of the Baylor College of Medicine Physician Assistant program in January of 2011 and is the director of the didactic and clinical pediatric curriculum, as well as being closely involved in teaching other aspects of the curriculum. Her professional interests include breastfeeding education, child safety, child development, and promotion of well-child care. She currently lives in Houston with her husband and three young children.